Bioscan Session Overview

Step 1 - Scan
A scan covers the stomach, gut, liver, gallbladder, kidneys, pancreas, adrenal glands and blood cells. Other areas can be added if requested.

Step 2 – Metatherapy
This helps to remove stress and to start to correct the flow of energy to the organs, supporting the body to heal itself. However, chronically stressed organs also need to be addressed physically.

Depending on the results, more metatherapy is usually recommended. A system can be hired at $10/day, plus shipping (if applicable), plus a video call session covering the instructions for use.

Step 3a – Supplement Testing & Comparative Analysis
Specific supplements will be tested to see what is necessary to support the organs that appear stressed. For example, if the gastric glands in the stomach are stressed, digestive enzymes are tested to see what is suitable. For the gut, different strains and mixed strains of probiotics are tested to support the gut microbiome.

After the test, a comparative analysis is carried out to see which supplements are the best to support the stressed organs. A chart of the results is supplied with the supplement name and brand, plus how to take them.

Step 3b – Your Supplements Tested
If you are taking supplements, these can also be tested including probiotics.
Please note that extra time is required for this.

Step 4 – Other Testing
Gut dysbiosis (gut bacteria imbalance), parasites, giardia, amoeba, chemicals, candida, mould, heavy metals, radiation, food sensitivities including gluten and dairy, low vitamins, minerals and amino acids. Possible ailments – please note that those that show up are not a diagnosis.

Step 5 – Report
The items in step 4 above are saved into a report.
Guidelines to work with food sensitivities and change of diet are included, plus what the recommended first step is based on the results (report findings). This could be a gentle detox to dealing with dysbiosis or candida.

Session Fee: $100 (+ $12 room hire per hour if applicable) + $20 report findings (as at November 2025)
Sessions are carried out in Albany, Auckland or a system can be shipped (please enquire).

Session Time
Clients usually book an hour or 90 minutes if personal supplements are tested. (Please note that the set up and pack down time is included in the session which is only a matter of minutes.) If time runs out in an hour session, the report can be done outside of the consultation at an additional cost.
